BIOGRAPHY OF SAMUEL MATHEY

Samuel Mathey is an international consultant, specialized on issues of entrepreneurship, debt and finance. Samuel holds a doctorate (Ph.D.) in Economics and an MBA from University of Delaware and the Ohio State University. He equally owns a Master degree in monetary economics and econometrics and a bachelor in accounting (2000). Samuel had been a serial entrepreneur before going into academics, he created a dozen of companies and he employed over 200 people in his last venture. He teaches in the United States, Europe and Africa. Samuel has worked with major consulting, auditing and accounting firms (including KPMG and PwC).

Samuel is the President and Founder of AFFEED (African Foundation for Entrepreneurship and Economic Development), an NGO that advocate the cause of entrepreneurship in Africa and the concept of Zero Capital Entrepreneurs that he has advocated in his book on the issue. Samuel is contributor and expert on economics, entrepreneurship issues with several medias and magazines across Africa and Europe (Africa 24 TV, Tycoon Magazine…)

Samuel had served as a consultant for Sinoconnect, one of the Chinese policy instruments in the United States, Sinoconnect selects and acquires stakes in American start-up that have promising technologies. Samuel is a member of several associations, including the Academy of Management, the American Economic Association, the Black MBA Association (the umbrella organization of black American business intelligentsia).