Pilot Project for Developing Leadership Capacity to Support Libya’s Transition

The African Development Bank has received financing from the MENA Transition Fund toward the cost of the Pilot Project for Developing Leadership Capacity to Support Libya’s Transition, and intends to apply part of the agreed amount for this grant to payments under the contract for a consortium of internationally recognised academic and professional institutions, which would act as the Project Management Office.

The project aims to strengthen the efficiency and effectiveness of Libyan institutions to deliver democratic governance and sustainable economic and social progress. The services included under this project are described below:

1. Support the Libyan leadership in the transition period;

2. Run a pilot leadership training program for executive level officials (public, private and civil society), through:
   a. Building transformative leadership capacity to engage in political, economic and social reforms for enhancing Libya’s ability to manage its democratic transition and create new synergies between various stakeholders (public service, private sector and civil society) to support a new positive momentum in the country;
   b. Connecting these leaders with international mentors and experts to support management of the complexities of the democratic transition; and
   c. Enhancing Libya’s international competitiveness and integration to the global economy.

3. Produce a strategy that strengthens long-term transformative leadership capacity in Libya in support of the Libya 2050 Vision.

The African Development Bank now invites eligible agencies, universities, consultancy firms, other institutions to indicate their interest in providing these services. Interested organisations must provide information indicating that they are qualified to perform the services (brochures, description of similar assignments, experience in similar conditions, availability of appropriate skills among staff, etc.). Organisations may constitute joint-ventures to enhance their chances of qualification. In this case, the interested organisations must provide the proposed list of institutions that will make up the Consortium. The consortium should be composed of a number of internationally recognised academic and professional institutions and consultants, specialising in the fields and programmes relevant to the project (such as governance, conflict resolution, international diplomacy, international trade, etc.).

Shortlisted agencies, universities, consultancy firms, other institutions will then be provided with a full Request for Proposal.

Eligibility criteria, establishment of the short-list and the selection procedure shall be in accordance with the African Development Bank’s “Rules and Procedures for the use of Consultants” edition May 2008 and revised July 2012, which is available on the Bank’s website at http://www.afdb.org.
Interested organisations may obtain further information at the address below during office hours 09:00-17:00.

Expressions of interest must be delivered to the address below by 22 August 2014 at 17:00 and mention “Libya Leadership Consortium EOI”.
