I. BACKGROUND

The African Development Bank is a regional multilateral development finance institution established in 1964 with a mandate to further economic development and social progress of African countries, individually and collectively. It is member of the African Development Bank Group (“the Bank Group”) together with the African Development Fund and the Nigeria Trust Fund.
Flowing from its mandate, the Bank Group has a fiduciary and legal duty to ensure that funds are used for the purposes for which they were intended. Where firms or individuals divert these funds to other uses through fraud, corruption, coercion, collusion or obstruction, defined as “Sanctionable Practices”, the Bank Group exercises this fiduciary duty by sanctioning these entities through an administrative process.

In this line, the Sanctions Appeals Board (“SAB”) is the second tier, and appellate body, of the two-tier Sanctions System set up by the African Development Bank pursuant to the terms of the Cross debarment Agreement signed between the Multilateral development banks (MDBs) on 9 April 2010. Therefore, the SAB receives and determines appeals from the Sanctions Commissioner’s decisions and performs such other functions and responsibilities as set forth in the Sanctions Procedures. It is made of six members including four external members (two substantive and two alternate members) and two internal members (one substantive and one alternate member). In accordance with its Terms of Reference, the SAB decides cases “de novo” in full or in panels (two external members and one internal member), depending on the complexity and nature of the case.
